

ABSTRACT

A respiratory mask with a display of graphics and/or text visible on a surface thereof. The display may provide an incentive for people to wear the mask, aid in the identification of the person wearing the mask, or reduce intimidation of children at the doctor's office, among other advantages. The invention is also relates to a method of advertising and/or conveying information by including a display on a respiratory mask.